Internet Television in Australia

Internet television in Australia is the digital distribution of movies and television content via the internet. In Australia, internet television is provided by five major pay-per-view providers, in addition to several niche television streaming services. Australia's five major free-to-air television networks all offer catch up TV of previously broadcast content to watch via the Internet or via podcasts - drawing on both domestic and foreign content.

A feature of Internet television is that a user can view TV or video on demand. Some distributors provide content as downloads, while others streaming media; the main difference being that with downloads the end-user must have storage capacity for the content on their device and must wait for the download to be completed before the content can be viewed, while streamed content can be viewed almost immediately, but is not stored for a later second viewing.

Whether downloaded or streamed, video files over the Internet are usually metered in Australia, with most ISPs setting download quotas which can limit the download that a subscriber can make without incurring additional costs. ISPs also provide plans with unlimited downloads. Some ISPs offer downloads on a quota-free basis for partnered television services, which is also known as "unmetered" content.

Internet television is a type of over-the-top content. "Over-the-top" (OTT) is the delivery of audio, video, and other media over the Internet without the involvement of a multiple-system operator (such as a cable television provider) in the control or distribution of the content.

National Geographic App

National Geographic announced a ground breaking partnership in Australia with telecommunications provider Optus, to launch a global first National Geographic app which brings together a treasure trove of videos, images and print articles, including the work of its explorers, photographers, filmmakers, scientists and conservationists.

Launching in Australia first and exclusively with Optus, to be followed with roll-out across Asia Pacific and Middle East the app gives users the chance to explore the world of National Geographic like never before. In one world-first app, users can choose to read from the huge range of articles, watch a short video or an entire documentary series, or scroll through some of the world's most breathtaking photography. Every Optus customer will have their own unique experience while using the National Geographic App, with content fully personalised to suit them - all without using their data.

Television is a colossal industry in China and their content is changing to respond to the challenges presented by digital media, and upcoming businesses in both traditional and new media sectors.

MIP China Hangzhou

MIP China Hangzhou was launched in partnership with China Media Management Inc (CMMI), official representative for MIPTV and MIPCOM in China and Zhejiang MegaMedia, organiser of the Zhejiang of the Zhejiang Provincial Pavilion at the MIP markets in Cannes.

MIP China Hangzhou was scheduled from 23 to 25 May 2017 in Hangzhou. Hangzhou is known as the beautiful East Coast city that hosted the recent G20 Summit. MIP China Hangzhou is dedicated to increase content development between the Chinese and international production companies as well as to provide a comprehensive educational forum for Chinese media professionals to recognise international TV markets and trends.

MIP China Hangzhou was a high-level summit with two components in one event. The first component was the Partnership Forum which saw leading executives from up to 40 international television production and distribution companies with 40 senior level Chinese media executives for one-to-one meetings. The one-to-one setting aims to forge global co-development and co-production between these international and Chinese representatives. The attendees of the Partnership Forum also had the opportunity to visit production studios based in and around Hangzhou.

Recent launches

Tencent is using LiveU's portable transmission technology to stream its innovative new reality series live. The new reality series is called See where you are going. The live online programme follows Olympic champions, movie stars and random guests in six cities around China (Suzhou, Hangzhou, Beijing, Tianjin, Qingdao and Shenzhen) as they perform various tasks.

Tencent has deployed 10 LU200s, LiveU's ultra-small transmission units, for the live production. Separate camera crews live stream the different stars in the different locations and viewers can choose one of six different video rooms to watch the video live on any device. At the end of each programme, Tencent posts an edited version combining all the various clips online.

The LiveU units and support are provided by LiveU's local partner Guanhua Glory (GHG) AV system Ltd, a long-standing supplier to Tencent, with additional support provided by Oneband Systems, an additional LiveU partner.

Hong Kong's television industry brings the best and worst of times as Viu TV kicked off its service with more programming selection for consumers while Hong Kong's Asia Television (ATV) broadcasting company goes off air.

The Asia Television (ATV) broadcasting company had faced a gradual decline in production quality and viewership and stopped airing as ATV failed to renew its' license. The departure of ATV coincided with the emergence of PCCW's ViuTV as it entered the market taking on existing broadcasters such as TVB and RTHK, which runs three free TV channels including new Internet-based TV stations.

Impact of smart devices

Chinese Internet TV platform LeEco (formerly known as LeTV) has gained a strong position in the Hong Kong market by showcasing more than 10 channels and video-on-demand service through customised smartphone and smart TV devices.

HKTv was considered the frontier in the television market three years ago when it launched the station through online platform. The station won acclaim from the public as it aired high-quality drama series such as The Election and The Borderline.

However, its reach was threatened by smartphones and smart TVs, making it difficult for HKTv to compete with the dominance of TVB. Due to the license setback, the company focused on the operation of an e-commerce platform which involved huge investments. HKTv continues to build a multimedia production centre in Tseung Kwan O in the hope that it can make a comeback to the TV market.

HKTv would be able to co-exist with Viu TV, given that the latter will focus on reality shows and infotainment programmes while HKTv would be able to focus on drama series productions. Industry observers have claimed that in the past, HKTv could be pursuing a wrong strategy for concentrating on drama series productions, a segment where TVB has huge strengths.

INDIA

India TV advertising growth has been strong

India will be APAC's fastest growing major ad market over the next five years, motoring ahead at a 13.1% CAGR.

Television has always been the biggest draw of crowd since the early seventies in India. Today, it is perhaps as big as the entire continent of Europe. The Broadcast Audience Research Council of India (BARC), the country's TV viewership monitoring agency, has increased its estimates for audience size and television penetration, saying the medium now is watched by 780 million citizens in the South Asian nation.

By comparison, Europe has a population of about 745 million. After the update, the homes with a television set in the country have gone up to 183 million from 154 million, implying an increase in TV penetration to 64%, from the earlier estimate of 54%.

The marked increase follows the latest broadcast India survey, the largest ever research study undertaken to ascertain TV universe and television viewing habits in India. Fieldwork for the broadcast India survey was carried out between November 2015 to February 2016, covering 300,000 homes across 590 districts, touching about 4,300 towns and villages.

Partho Dasgupta, CEO of BARC India said, "The TV universe in India is ever growing and changing and so is the profit and choice of a TV viewer. The last survey done was in 2013 and the last census was in 2011. The consumer and viewer landscape is changing rapidly with electrification, prosperity, changing modes of signal and digitisation."

According to Media Partners Asia (MPA), India is set to become Asia-Pacific's best performing ad market over the next five years, with net ad revenue expanding at a 13.1% CAGR between 2017 and 2022. This will help India overtake Australia to become the region's third largest ad market by 2022, after China and Japan. Australia will fall to fourth place, while Korea will remain in fifth.

India, forecast to enjoy the fastest growth over the next five years, will see net ad revenue expanding to US$17.1 billion by 2022, up from US$9.2 billion in 2017. For Australia, another mature market, net ad revenue will rise to US$13.2 billion by 2022, from US$11.8 billion in 2017. Despite slow growth, Korea will hold onto its position as Asia Pacific's fifth largest ad market, with net ad revenue touching US$9.7 billion by 2022, up from US$9.0 billion in 2017.

AIB welcomes Hum Network as first Member from Pakistan

National and international broadcaster set to benefit from full range of AIB services.

The Association for International Broadcasting, the trade association for television, radio and online, is pleased to announce that Hum Network has become its first Member in Pakistan.

Hum Network is Pakistan's only publicly-quoted media company, operating a range of television channels that are available across the country. Hum Network also offers its television channels in North America, the UK and the Middle East. Hum Network has expanded into production for television and film, and has plans for further development in a range of areas of the media both at home and abroad.

As a Member, Hum Network now has access to the full range of the AIB's work, ranging from market intelligence briefings to participation in working groups that focus on key areas of activity such as cyber security, sustainability and audience measurement. The AIB also supports its Members on key issues that affect their business through its international lobbying activities.

The Association for International Broadcasting is a not-for-profit, non-governmental organisation that works for the benefit of its Members and of the wider media industry.

On another note, Pakistan's PEMRA regulator is seeking to update its existing 2007 regulations and to block broadcaster's TV signals if its programming is offensive. If the current Act is modified, it will allow PEMRA to work with the nation's Space & Upper Atmosphere Commission (Suparco) and to in effect, jam the offending transmissions from satellite operators.

The re-think follows on from the December 16th, 2014, terrorist attack in Peshawar. The plan is to enforce ethical standards to protect terrorism outrage. BBC Monitoring reported that Pakistan's Electronic Media Regulator Authority (PEMRA) has approved the cancellation of 425 cable TV licences across the country. PEMRA made the decision at a meeting.

PEMRA says many of the licences were dormant or were in default. There was a total of 3,600 PEMRA licensed cable operators across the country. However, after the cancellation of 425 cable TV licences, the number plummeted to 3,175. PEMRA also approved the cancellation of 'Metro One'.

BBC Bangla TV and radio content reaches 15m people in Bangladesh
BBC Bangla TV and radio content now reaches 15m people in Bangladesh every week, according to the BBC's 2017 Global Audience Measure. This includes 9m people who watch the BBC Bangla weekly television programme, BBC Probaho, and 7m people who tune in to the BBC Bangla radio programmes.

BBC Bangla editor, Sabir Mustafa, comments: "We are thrilled by the progress of BBC Probaho. We will build on its success by expanding the BBC Bangla presence on television - while continuing to deliver a strong and vibrant radio programming and also working to increase our output across digital platforms including social media."

BBC Probaho is broadcast at 9.35pm local time every Thursday by the BBC's rebroadcasting partner, Channeli. The programme is also available on the BBC Bangla channel on YouTube. Presented by Sharmin Rauma, it delivers 25 minutes of news, interviews and debate on key issues affecting Bangladesh. It reports from across the country, giving people the opportunity to express views and raise concerns on issues that matter to them and demanding answers from key decision-makers. Following the Eid festival break, the programme resumes broadcasts on Thursday 13 July.

BBC Bangla radio programmes, produced in London and Dhaka, air on the state FM network, Bangladesh Betar, as well as on shortwave and via bbcangla.com.

Over the past year, BBC Bangla has seen a significant increase in web and social-media reach. BBC Bangla engages around 1.4m people around the world every week via its website bbcangla.com and on social media. The BBC Bangla Facebook page has over 11.3m followers (July 2017), nearly 80% of them in Bangladesh.

On the television front, Bangladeshi TV dramas address real-life situations that common viewers can relate to. However, most of the realistic content comes in an entertaining package, unlike the 'art-films' genre which many find it boring. These films traverse the fine line between realistic situations and entertainment content.

Global Opportunities Sri Lanka series
CNBC partnered with the Ministry of Finance Sri Lanka to bring insights to local and regional audiences.

CNBC, the world's leading business and financial news network, announced the launch of Global Opportunities Sri Lanka, a series that looks into Sri Lanka's key industries and opportunities, as well as the challenges, for investors. The Global Opportunities Sri Lanka campaign was delivered in partnership with the Ministry of Finance Sri Lanka and was run in June 2016.

CNBC's Global Opportunities Sri Lanka campaign aimed to inform the network's affluent and investment savvy audience about the potential of investing in Sri Lanka.

"We are excited to partner with the Ministry of Finance Sri Lanka. This partnership enables CNBC to bring actionable insights about Sri Lanka's economic landscape to our audiences. This is made possible through the partnership CNBC has forged with the Ministry of Finance Sri Lanka," said Kerry Tarrant, Vice President of Sales at CNBC Asia Pacific.

Last year, the Global Opportunities Sri Lanka special report was aired daily on CNBC APAC on Squawk Box Asia. CNBC was launched on 24 February 2015 in Sri Lanka and made available to Dialog TV subscribers on Channel 41.

Sun TV, the Tamil satellite television station has acquired the pay-TV rights for Sri Lanka. The channel is bringing the 'YOKO', the pre-school children's animated series across the above-mentioned regions.

The kids' series consists of 52 episodes lasting for 12 minutes each. It is co-produced by Russia's Wizar and Spanish toon studios Somuga and Dibultoon and Spanish broadcaster TVE. The story revolves around the adventures of three children who loves to play outside. They are joined by magical forest taking their ordinary games and turning them into extraordinary adventures.

Dominic Gardiner, the CEO of Jetpack, revealed that: "We are delighted to be partnering with some of the world's leading broadcasters and toy companies on Yoko. These new agreements underline this quirky brand's broad international appeal and we are excited that the show is attracting attention from broadcasters and licensing companies in these key markets and beyond".

JWT rebrands Vietnam TV station K+
 The TVCs will employ a 'Mo Lei Tau' style of humour, which captures how Vietnamese audiences fantasise about cinema.

J. Walter Thompson has unveiled a campaign to reposition Vietnam's pay-TV network K+ as more than just a football broadcaster. The agency created the tagline Cang Xex Cang Yeu, which loosely translates in English to 'the more you watch the more you love', as part of a campaign promoting K+'s content diversification.

Previously focused on sports broadcasting, K+ will branch out into airing romantic dramas, international and Vietnamese films.

Created by JWT's Vietnam office, the TV commercial centres on the country's "obsessive" TV-watching habits.

The campaign will be the first in a year-long series promoting the channel's re-launch. According to the agency, the following TVCs will employ a 'Mo Lei Tau' style of humour, which captures how Vietnamese audiences fantasise about cinema.

JWT Vietnam CEO Saby Mishra said: "The TV landscape is changing fast and full on but content is still king. This requires re-thinking TV not as a channel but as a brand, addressing multiple demographics but built on a single, cohesive brand story. This journey is a truly productive collaboration with VSTV/K+ team and Canal International in the transformation of K+."

2 prime time shows from Armoza commissioned in Vietnam

Vietnam's HTV7 has now re-commissioned Armoza Formats' hit prime time studio entertainment show I Can Do That! for a second season, while VTV3 has licensed prime time singing competition format Celebrity Battle.

The second season of I Can Do That! Vietnam has been commissioned prior to the broadcast of its first season, which is set to air this month on HTV7, Style TV and Info TV. Meanwhile VTV3 will air the music show Celebrity Battle from November this year.

Developed and produced by Armoza formats, I Can Do That! (60-120') takes a group of competitive celebrities and challenges them to perform new, unique and show-stopping live acts each week to prove that there's nothing they can't do. Only the viewers can choose who has given the best performance.

Mizzima Media chosen to operate digital TV in Myanmar

Mizzima Media announced that it has been chosen as one of five new Free-to-Air (FTA) Digital TV channels to operate in Myanmar.

Out of 42 applications, 10 selected companies and entities were individually assessed for transparency, strong financial investment, and a legal background history and conformance to policy guidelines. The other four awarded the digital TV channels were Young Investment Group Co., Ltd., Kaung Myanmar Aung Co., Ltd., Fortune International Ltd., and DVB Multi Media Group Co., Ltd.

The Myanmar government will open up the television broadcasting sector to competition with plans to offer more operating licences in the coming months, said a senior official from the Ministry of Information. U Myo Myint Maung, the ministry's deputy permanent secretary, said prospective license holders would be invited to meet with officials soon to discuss the government's plans for the sector.

The law assigns regulatory power to the Broadcasting Council, the majority of members in which are appointed by the president and parliamentary speakers, prompting fears that the granting of broadcasting licences will be subject to political influence.

Existing TV and radio operators, which will have to reapply for operating licences under the law, are already in control of over half the available broadcast spectrum, leaving new operators to compete over the rest.

"The ministry needs to create a fair competition between businessmen and end this monopoly situation," said U Nay Tun Naing of Eleven Media, who is leading his company's preparations to compete for a TV broadcasting licence. "[Current operators] are getting the upper hand without doing anything in accordance with the law. They are taking it easy while others are struggling."

U Ye Min Oo, the general manager of SkyNet, which has held a virtual monopoly on the private TV broadcasting sector since 2010, said he was optimistic about the government's plans for the sector, adding that he hoped "just and fair policies for all will emerge".

The plan to authorise more private TV broadcasters originated during a planning session held in Nay Pyi Taw at the end of May. At the meeting, new Information Minister U Pe Myint said the government was determined to "find a way that will best serve equal rights and development of the broadcast sector" before the government imposed new regulations or a change to the Broadcast Law.

CAMBODIA

Taking TV to the next level

Media technology firm SuperNet launched a test phase in Cambodia, with the aim of bringing OTT (over-the-top) services, such as television and video on demand over the internet to the Kingdom's consumers. The Post's Hor Kimsay sat spoke to Fox Lui, Chief Financial Officer at Supernet to discuss the company's prospects.

Supernet's OTT digital TV is the first OTT operator in Cambodia. It is technology that is based on the internet, with 103 digital and HD programmes, rich content, quality image and voice, and smart applications. It allows users to have two way communications. It changes the way of watching TV to using TV and playing with TV. You basically can choose what you want to watch. It will open the door for developing internet digital TV in Cambodia.

Digital TV focuses mainly on people who have less affordable income so we want to provide them the service so that they can have some entertainment and also practical information.

"Supernet, with a registered capital of $100 million, was established and founded by the China-Asean Fund along with Chinese companies and a Cambodia partner," said Lui. "I cannot share about the Cambodian shareholder because it is confidential. But I can ensure you that we have a close relationship with Bayon TV."

He continued, "The objective of China-Asean Fund, is to invest in Asean countries. In recent years, the development of internet digital TV has received significant attention around the world. Internet TV is a popular platform, covering information technology and media industry and has expanded into a new market combining infotainment, communication and internet applications. Cambodia's economy is improving and we want to move forward. We want to provide entertainment services to Cambodia and give them access to all useful information.

"We are already operating OTT services in Phnom Penh, Siem Reap and Sihanoukville. For DTT, we will provide the services to eight provinces along Tonle Sap lake. We now have more than 100 users for OTT and another 200 users for OTT TV," he said.

LAOS Mobile network performance deteriorating

The industry claim there is obvious deficiencies in the regulatory environment in how the authorities apply and manage network performance standards.

Mobile market in Laos is still struggling to find the right direction. The telecom sector in Laos still has numerous issues to address. The rate of regulatory reform continues to be well behind wider industry development, even for a developing economy like Laos. The delays in reform have the potential to derail the good progress already made if the process is not speeded up.

The mobile sector in particular has been going through a difficult period. Following the Beeline saga back in 2011/2012, the fallout was still being felt now. A cloud of uncertainty seems to be hanging over the whole market. Subscriber growth is weak after the market had gone backwards for a while. The cellcos are now operating in an environment where the regulator is keeping a tight hold on pricing and competition is in effect discouraged.

A further problem emerging for the mobile operators is that network performance is deteriorating across the board. This in turn highlighted two important issues – there has been insufficient investment by the operators in the areas of network maintenance and upgrades, and, secondly, there are obvious deficiencies in the regulatory environment in how the authorities apply and manage network performance standards. It is understood that the MPT had started to address the latter problem in 2015.

The country's accession to the WTO was finalised in early 2013. As a consequence Laos is now required to implement its post-WTO accession agenda. Of critical importance for the country's telecom sector, the WTO Reference Paper on telecommunications among other things calls for the setting up an independent telecom regulator. Indeed, this was required to be put in place two years after accession (ie by February 2015). By June 2015 this had not been achieved. It was understood that work was proceeding on the matter.

Gradually adopting online

An archipelago of more than 13,000 islands, Indonesia has a population of around 237million and based on research done by CASBAA, more than half the households in Indonesia have a TV in their homes. Although the Indonesian TV market only grew by 4.5% in 2015, according to Media Partners Asia (MPA), its market has seen a significant growth in the recent years in areas such as ad sales and subscription revenues from pay-tv.

Ulama Nusantara, a historical documentary travelogue was ranked twice as the number one show on Metro TV in Jakarta, Indonesia barely four weeks since it was first broadcasted on 9th October 2016 in the neighbouring country.

With 20.3% increased viewership since its first episode, Ulama Nusantara made it to the top five list of most watched programme during its slot, against 15 other local and national stations for the first four episodes. The second episode of the documentary had impressively garnered 859, 000 viewership in cities that are covered by Nielsen namely Jakarta, Bandung, Yogyakarta, Medan, Makassar, Palembang, Semarang, Surabaya, Denpasar, Banjarmasin and Surakarta.

The 13-episode documentary was produced by Primeworks Studios in collaboration with the Department of Arabic and Islamic Civilisational Studies. This documentary explored six countries, including Malaysia, Indonesia, Brunei, Thailand, Egypt and Turkey, which took the production team three years to complete the project.

New Programmes

Channel NewsAsia's Indonesia's Game Changers is a 4-part series that delves into the lives of inspiring figures, whose inventiveness, creativity and perseverance have brought about changes not only to their immediate surroundings but also to the country.

The first episode features the Mayors of Bandung and Surabaya sharing ideas and breakthroughs in the national political scene with their innovative leaderships. While the second episode is about two young technology entrepreneurs, who use digital technology to assist small and medium enterprises to access the lucrative digital market and streamline the healthcare system.

Indonesia's Rotasi directed by Destian Rendra is the grand winner of the inaugural "The 5-Min Video Challenge" organised by the Singtel Group. Rotasi (Rotates) beat 11 other entries from Australia, Indonesia, the Philippines, Singapore, Thailand and Tanzania to take home the first prize at the Regional Finals award ceremony held at Grand Hyatt Singapore. Destian Rendra also received US$3K for winning the popular vote for Rotasi.

Key developments

PlayBox Technology has completed its broadcast payout system expansion. There has been three AirBox servers deployed at the Biznet Techno village on the outskirts of Jakarta have been upgraded to the latest AirBox Neo.

"All the AirBox Neo servers are operated remotely via optical fibre links from our payout suite in central Jakarta, handling three programme channels. One of these, Kids Channel, carries audio in English, Japanese, Korean and Thai."

PlayBox Technology CEO Pavlin Rahnev adds that the Neo series now comprises eleven separate elements which can be integrated and configured to match practically any workflow and any required level of backup security.

Sarana Media Vision (SMV) launched its premiere nationwide Free-to-View DTH satellite television service called "SMV FreeSat TV" in Indonesia. The new platform is available across all of Indonesia via the ABS satellites covering Indonesia.

SMV FreeSat TV will be free-to-view and will initially feature over 60 domestic and international channels with plans to expand to over 100 channels in the coming months. Japanese broadcasters launch online platform for viewing TV shows Television broadcasters are seeking new revenue streams from online content in a nation increasingly glued to smartphones and not to the box. Young people in particular are spurning traditional TV.

Five major commercial networks headquartered in Tokyo have jointly launched a free service named TVer, which allows online viewing of TV programs for about a week after broadcast. Public broadcaster Japan Broadcasting Corp., commonly known as NHK, has begun trials of simultaneous TV broadcasting and online distribution.

A Cabinet Office survey on consumer spending found that the proportion of heads-of-households aged up to 29 who own a TV set dropped to some 85 percent in March 2015 from about 91 percent two years earlier.

Commercial broadcasters in particular are hoping to make online advertisements a revenue source. A survey by ad agency Dentsu Inc. estimated the nation's online ad market to be worth more than ¥1 trillion in 2014, while ads from terrestrial broadcasting have shown a slow recovery after falling below ¥2 trillion in the wake of the global financial crisis.

Netflix Inc. of the United States and Amazon Japan K.K., with its Prime Video service, joined the growing Japanese market of video streaming services in 2015. The services enabling subscribers to watch their favourite programs anywhere anytime are seen as drawing viewers from traditional TV.

In the TV service launched last October, each broadcaster makes around 10 programmes available for about a week after broadcast. The system was an immediate hit. Within three weeks of its launch, users downloaded a custom viewing app over 1 million times. "The service has been highly appreciated by our ad clients," TV Asahi Corp. President Shinichi Yoshida said.

NHK has been studying the needs of viewers through the experimental simultaneous online distribution of TV programs. Still, commercial broadcasters are cautious about the possibility that the public broadcaster may grab the lion's share of the audience.

"The use of the Internet by NHK should be complementary to their broadcasting," Hiroshi Inoue, chairman of the Japan Commercial Broadcasters Association, said.

Macau government urged to provide
Free TV

A government-appointed research committee has urged the Macau government to provide a bouquet of free-TV channels to all households in the territory. According to news reports, the University of Macau-based committee urged the government to:

- Clearly distinguish between free-TV and pay-TV
- Extend Macau Cable TV's license to operate in the pay-TV sector, but on a non-exclusive basis
- Use a public body of some sort to ensure consumers can receive a bouquet of free-to-air programming
- Negotiate with rights holders if necessary to get the rights for redistribution of their content in Macau.

Unlike other markets in Asia, Macau has only very limited indigenous free-to-air TV, provided by public service broadcaster Televisao de Macau (Tdm). For the past few decades, a handful of "antenna companies" have provided free-to-air signals from Hong Kong and China, as well as pirated pay-TV channels, to Macau households. The new arrangements proposed by the University would give the "antenna companies" a role in distributing the government-provided FTA content, and at the same time would represent a substantial restructuring and possibly clean-up of infringements in the sector.

Macau cable TV wins big on piracy compensation

An appeals court in Macau has confirmed the judgment that the Macau SAR government should pay compensation of $200 million Pcts. (US$ 25.6 million) to Macau Cable TV, because the government failed to enforce its own laws against pay-TV piracy during Macau Cable TV's exclusive contract period (1999 to 2014). For years during that time, CATV suppliers called "antenna companies" supplied the lion's share of Macau's consumers with program bouquets including pirated international pay-TV broadcasts, and repeated complaints to the government produced no enforcement action. Macau Cable sued the government for arbitration under its franchise contract, and won an initial award in 2012 that was reaffirmed by the recent appeals court ruling.

That system has now ended; in 2014, Macau's authorities restructured the TV economy and created a government-owned TV distribution company that provides a bouquet of 49 free-to-air channels to the "antenna companies" for redistribution.

LOCAL PRODUCTIONS

Over the recent years, Discovery has collaborated with local creators and storytellers to co-create content that caters to the various audiences in Southeast Asia. Discovery Networks Asia-Pacific announces their production slate for 2017 with Frontier Borneo, which follows a group of Borneo's unsung heroes as they discover and preserve Borneo's tropical landscape and rich biodiversity. Produced by Beach House Pictures and Kyanite TV with the support of the Info-communications Media Development Authority (IMDA) and Perbadanan Kemajuan Filem Nasional Malaysia (FINAS), the series uncovers rescue missions and deadly creatures in uncharted territories to fully reveal both the beauty and reality of frontier living in the island.

Another production out of Malaysia by Matavia Reka is Surviving Borneo, which is a series that follows local television host and influencer, Henry Golding, as the descendant of the once feared Iban tribe of Sarawak. Henry takes up a personal mission to discover his tribal roots through the unexplored and relentless jungles of his homeland in order to achieve his 'Bejalai' which is an Iban rites of passage.

Rohit Tharani, Director of Content Curation, Discovery Southeast Asia said, "In 2017, we are taking the lead and investing in more local content than ever before, bolstering our flagship channels and broadening the appeal for the millennial generation. We are well positioned to take risks and be experimental with the content we are curating across platforms. This presents an unique opportunity to deepen our connection with existing and new audiences across Southeast Asia."

SKY & Vodafone end merger agreement

The parties have also decided to withdraw the appeal of the Commerce Commission decision regarding the proposed merger.

New Zealand pay-TV operator Sky Network Television and telco Vodafone Europe B.V.I, a wholly owned subsidiary of Vodafone Group Plc, have now decided to terminate the sale and purchase agreement in relation to the proposed merger of SKY and Vodafone New Zealand.

In a Statement, SKY and Vodafone New Zealand said they would continue to work together to strengthen their commercial relationship for the benefit of the customers and the shareholders of their respective organisations.

In June 2016, the pair announced their plan to merge, a move they said would create a leading integrated telecommunications and media group in New Zealand, with the combined group having the ability to offer New Zealand's best entertainment content across all platforms and devices in a rapidly evolving media and telecommunications market.

In October 2106, however, New Zealand's Commerce Commission sent a Letter of Unresolved Issues to the pair in relation to their proposed merger, suggesting it was not satisfied that the proposed merger will not have, or would not be likely to have, the effect of substantially lessening competition in the telecommunications and pay-TV services markets.

It sought further submissions from Sky and Vodafone on the specific areas of concern identified, including the ability of a merged Sky/Vodafone to use ownership of content - particularly live sports - to make buying Sky on a standalone basis less attractive than buying it in a bundle with Vodafone's broadband and mobile services.

On February 23rd 2017, the Commerce Commission said it had declined to grant clearance for the proposed merger, suggesting that to clear the merger it would need to have been satisfied that it was unlikely to substantially lessen competition in any relevant market. "Given we are not satisfied that we can say that competition is unlikely to be substantially lessened by the proposed merger, we must decline clearance," it concluded. The pair appealed that decision on March 22nd, subsequently amending it on May 18th. That appeal has now been withdrawn.

Dominating Daytime TV

ABS-CBN's hit afternoon drama Doble Kara continued to dominate Philippine's daytime until its final episode which scored a national TV rating of 22.2, or eight points higher than its rival programmes 14.2%, according to data from Kantar Media.

The final episode blew up online and hit the social media trends in the country with its official final hashtag #DKPagtataposNaPalaban, which became the top trending topics on Twitter.

Doble Kara had been a consistent top rater across urban and rural homes in the Philippines since its' first premiere in August 2015. It is known to be one of the most successful and longest-running dramas aired on Philippine afternoon TV and even landed the lead star Julia the title as "Daytime Drama Queen."

Doble Kara surrounds around Sarah and Kara, twin sisters who grew up in a happy family despite an impoverished life. However, when Kara was diagnosed of leukemia, the twins' mother had to separate the two and gave Kara to her real father because of their inability to pay for her medical treatment. The two crossed paths later on and causing conflicts between the two as Sarah start envying her seemingly perfect sister.

Key Developments

PCCW Media's OTT video service, Viu, has received four million unique users within its' first year of its' launch. Known as a game-changing video platform for Asian premium content, Viu has been launched in the Philippines as part of its regional expansion, providing viewers access to content on the web and on mobile while on-the-go.

Regional success with increasing growth and bold presence in Asia, Viu is now established in Hong Kong, Singapore, Malaysia, India, Indonesia and the Philippines. Viu recorded over 218 million video views in the third quarter of 2016, which doubles the preceding of three months. Viu's users display high engagement with their consumption which is on average 1.2 hours per day. 12 videos are viewed by each user every week on average.

Viu is known for their immediately delivery of local subtitling, especially for its' Korean content. The subtitles are available as quick as four hours after its' telecast in Korea. Viu also provides many user-friendly features making Viu the leading Asian premium content platform popular with online users in Asia.

Along with its' premium drama and entertainment shows, Viu takes the extra mile to satisfy fans through K1 Headlines which offers fans exciting Korean lifestyle entertainment and celebrity bite-sized news which is exclusively provided by Dispatch, a top entertainment site in Korea. Viu decided to launch in the Philippines due to the massive receptiveness to OTT video consumption shown by local online viewers.

The Nielsen Global Video-On-Demand Survey proves to show 45% of online consumers in the Philippines watch VOD at least once a day. 82% of online consumers agreed that they like to catch up on multiple episodes at one time so Viu's download feature will satisfy this need.

MyRepublic brands itself as internet platform and not telco

The company has also unveiled plans for regional expansion and IPO.

Broadband provider MyRepublic has clarified that the reason it was not buying M1 was because it was an "internet platform company" and not a telco. This followed widespread speculation late May 2017 that it was seeking financial backing for an M1 acquisition.

Malcolm Rodrigues, CEO and co-founder of MyRepublic, said that the company is currently undertaking branding efforts to emphasise that it is a cloud-based internet platform company which looks to transform the telecommunications space.

Rodrigues added that the company is also in the midst of concluding its search for agency partners to facilitate the branding process. Addressing why it refers to itself as an "Internet platform company", Rodrigues explained that aside from broadband services, the company currently specialises in other products and services such as data analytics and monetisation, as well as access infrastructure.

Eyeing regional expansion

The company has also unveiled plans
for regional expansion and IPO. It hopes to raise SG$100million, around 13.3% of which will go into marketing spend. Currently the company spends about 5% of its total revenue on marketing spend, and has an annualised revenue of SG$110million across the group.

About SG$60million of the funds raised will go into its Indonesia expansion, and SG$40million into customer acquisition, which marketing falls under.

Meanwhile, it looks to launch an IPO in end-2018, which will also contribute to its Indonesia expansion plans. MyRepublic is currently operating in markets including Singapore, Indonesia, Australia and New Zealand and aims to expand in Southeast Asian markets. This includes markets such as Malaysia, Philippines, Thailand and Cambodia, to name a few.

The company has also unveiled plans to launch mobile services in Singapore by end of this year, allowing it to become a mobile virtual network operator (MVNO). MyRepublic will achieve this through the wholesale buying of mobile bandwidth from existing telcos in Singapore. This would allow it to join the ranks of Circles Life, a current player in the MVNO market which operates by leasing bandwidth from M1.

South Korean Paid-for Online Video Market to Triple by 2021

South Korea is on the market watch list for its new insights in the video streaming environment.

The South Korean paid-for online video market is forecast to more than triple to $433 million in 2021 from $142 million in 2016, according to IHS Markit (Nasdaq: INFO), a world leader in critical information, analytics and solutions. The market is one of the biggest in Asia, with an annual average revenue per user at $97 for its subscription service in 2016, compared to $103 in Japan and just $31 in China.

"South Korean consumers are more willing to pay for premium content now, and most of them will have multiple streaming subscriptions in the future," said Jun Wen Woo, analyst at IHS Markit. "High smartphone adoption, availability of low-priced subscription services, as well as the entrance of new local and international services, will also contribute to the growth of the market."

The paid-for online video market in South Korea includes subscription and transactional business models. POOQ and TV are two of the most notable online video subscription services in terms of the number of subscribers, while Google Play Movies dominates the transactional business holding more than two thirds of market share in terms of revenue. South Korea is one of the few markets in the world where Apple iTunes Store is not available.

With the increasing popularity of watching video on smartphones and tablet PCs, pay TV providers, such as KT, SK Telecom and LG Uplus, media company CJ E&M, and three major broadcasters have expanded their businesses into digital.

But content production across platforms has surged over the years with foreign broadcasters collaborating with local players for exclusive content. PCCW and Netflix are two active players in this area.

Netflix has signed an exclusive international licensing agreement with JTBC, a South Korean nationwide general cable TV and broadcasting company, for the network's new Friday/Saturday TV series MAN x MAN made its debut on 21 April 2017.

Apart from being a Netflix original series, MAN x MAN is also Netflix's first simulcast of a Korean drama in over 20 languages to millions of subscribers across the world. Except for Korea and the US, Man x Man will stream globally on Netflix the same time as it premieres on JTBC. In Korea, the series will be live on Netflix an hour after airing on JTBC; and in the U.S., Man x Man will be in two parts, each part comprising eight episodes each.

MAN x MAN is a new series directed by producer Chang-min Lee, who worked on popular K-drama series like Giant, Bride of the Sun, Birth of a Beauty, and Remember: War of the Son. The latter was written by Kim Won-seok, who was also recognised for co-writing Descendants of the Sun, one of the most successful K-drama series in 2016. Man x Man stars Park Hae-jin who has been known for roles in acclaimed works including My Love from the Star, Bad Guys, and Cheese in the Trap. The drama tells the story of Kim Seol Woo (played by Park Hae Jin), who becomes a ghost bodyguard for a top hallyu star, the secret "men" who surround him, and their mysterious exploits.

The global simulcast of MAN x MAN defines how the internet enables Netflix to put the focus on the consumer to bring a show from Korea to over 93 million subscribers across 190 countries in over 20 languages.

Korea's leading content and media company CJ E&M's new fantasy romantic TV drama series The Bride of Habaek (also known as The Bride of Water God) meets global audiences via regional TV channel, tvN Asia and OTT platforms - DramaFever, Iflix, Viu, iQiyi, KKTv, Friday Video, ChocoTV.

A spin-off of bestselling comic, The Bride of Habaek is based on the story about the water god named Habaek (Nam Joo Hyuk) who loses all his abilities and has to reincarnate to human world and meet a realist female psychiatrist named So-Ah (Shin Sae Kyeong). So-Ah thinks he is just another mental patient and does not take him seriously.

The drama received much attention from fans around the world when a star-studded cast was officially announced - Shin Sae Kyeong, Nam Joo Hyuk, Lim Ju Hwan, Jung Soo Jung, Gong Myung. Even before airing its very first episode, the drama was sold to more than 20 countries across North and South America and Asia-Pacific. Additional countries including Japan are currently in negotiation for the drama sales.

Global fans can watch the episode within 24 hours of its original broadcasts in Korea through regional TV channel, tvN Asia (Asia-Pacific region) and streaming platform, DramaFever (across North and South America). It is also available through Iflix (Southeast Asia, Africa Region), Viu (Hong Kong, Malaysia, Indonesia, Singapore, Philippines), KKTv (Taiwan), iQiyi (Taiwan), Friday Video (Taiwan) and ChocoTV (Taiwan).

"We are very excited to finally air The Bride of Habaek as it has been highly anticipated worldwide with hottest star cast and the fantasy storyline. Premiered on July 3rd in Korea, the drama ranked first among all cable channel programmes in the same time slot to meet viewers' expectations" said CJ E&M official.

TAIWAN DIGITAL VIDEO STILL
UNDERPERFORMING

The island of Taiwan and its 23 million people are served by 61 cable operators, 36 of which are controlled by five Multi-System Operators, plus 25 smaller independent providers. As of Y/E 2016, the five MSOs controlled 73% of Taiwanese cable subscriptions.

Cable television is prevalent in Taiwan, as a result of cheap subscription rates (typically around NT$550, or US$15 a month) and the paucity of free-to-air television, which comprises about 20 channels. Programming is mostly in Mandarin and Taiwanese with a few channels in Hakka or English. There are also programmes in other foreign-language, mainly east Asian and south-east Asian languages. Miniseries, called Taiwanese drama, are popular. There is a dedicated station for Taiwan's Hakka minority as well as the arrival in 2005 of an aboriginal channel. There are around 100 channels with most stations being dedicated to a particular genre; such as game shows, news, anime, movies, sports and documentaries. Almost all programs are in the original language with traditional Chinese subtitles.

Digital television launched terrestrially throughout Taiwan on 1 July 2004. Currently, there are simulcasts of analogue and digital television.

Taiwan plans to replace analogue broadcasting with a digital system by 2014 after the analogue cable broadcast terminated. The Republic of China Cabinet approved a measure mandating that all new televisions are to be equipped with a digital television tuner from 2006. The rule will apply to TVs measuring between 21 and 29 inches in 2007, and to sets of all sizes in 2008, the Cabinet said in a statement. To assist lower-income families with the switch to digital television, the government plans to provide NT$300 million in aid to purchase converters or for the purchase of new digital televisions. In February 2009, the National Communications Commission proposed amendments to the Cable Television Act; they include mandating cable companies to provide free set-top boxes.

The cable television system comprises around one hundred different channels, ranging from news, sport, variety, game, music, children's, foreign, movie and documentary channels. The Taiwanese government is promoting digital signal television, provided through a set-top box. The analogue signal of air television was turned off on June 30, 2012.

In a recent key meeting with government officials, political leaders, industry regulators, business heads and international and local experts in Taipei has called for removal of investment constraints in the multichannel video industry, and increased attention to online piracy, as the Taiwan market reshapes itself as an all-digital (and often mobile) regional communications hub.

In a discussion convened by regional industry body CASBAA, it was heard that a major hurdle blocking further development of the Taiwan digital video industry is the rigid application of the "No state/No party ownership" rule prohibiting any "government official, political party, or elected official to invest, directly or indirectly", in cable system operators. The meeting heard that the rule is interpreted to prohibit acquisition of cable equities by companies where their corporate parents, several levels up, have even a single share owned by a government entity.

"Because of these rigid restrictions, only introduced in 2005, urgently needed mergers between telecom carriers (fixed-line and mobile) and cable TV operators have proved almost impossible," said Christopher Slaughter, the CEO of CASBAA at the end of the meeting."

TAIWAN

Slaughter added that the "No state/No party" investment rule flies in the face of global industry experience over the past 20 years. "This is preventing Taiwan from enjoying the most compelling aspects of the twenty-first century media revolution," he said.

Proliferation of online piracy networks were cited as another major problem. Representatives of start-up OTT operators trying to market bouquets of programming to Taiwan consumers observed they faced huge obstacles, as long as pirate networks based offshore were free to steal the programmes and distribute them for free. They warned that the development of innovative, indigenous Taiwan programming was at risk.

Earlier points made during the packed agenda for the 130 Taiwanese government and media-industry decision makers included lively discussion of pay-TV pricing issues (the basic tier programming package is tightly controlled) and the desire of the government to promote broadcast of more Taiwan programming.

By end 2017, online video in Taiwan should attract 15% of US$120 billion in revenues accrued by TV/telecoms industry from traditional free-to-air TV, pay-TV and OTT services, according to research house MPA.

In the meantime, the rising level of mobile broadband penetration in Taiwan is benefitting cable TV and IPTV operators such as the dominant state-owned telco Chunghwa Telecom as they develop their own local language, multiscreen services.

No longer limited to traditional TV viewing, Taiwan's mobile broadband subscribers are downloading apps and logging-in to pay-TV programming of all kinds. The largest group of OTT followers in Taiwan are young women aged 18-34, some 42% of the total. Together with 18-34 year-old males, almost 70% of OTT subscribers are "binge" viewers.

While the CASBAA meeting was generally upbeat, warnings of the cost of revenue leakage i.e. piracy) were a recurring theme. "The hugely damaging level of content piracy is not only holding back growth of both traditional pay-TV and innovative OTT offerings, but also the overall economic development of Taiwan as a whole," said John Medeiros, Chief Policy Officer, CASBAA.

"Living with massive revenue leakage from piracy while blocking sufficient investment in the digital economy, Taiwan is falling behind its natural potential as a regional communications hub," added Slaughter.

Thailand has a pay-TV penetration of 30 million and it has a multichannel TV penetration of 66%. New TV platforms have evolved through the years and Thailand currently, has a new digital platform that caters to millions of viewers and encompasses all digital terrestrial television channels in high definition too.

Thailand's Next Step direct-to-home Freeview HD platform has deployed multiple Cinegy Air PRO Bundles, a comprehensive, IP-based software suite for automated SD, HD and/or Ultra HD (4K) payout for their multi-channel payout offering.

It launched its free-to-air HD platform in late 2015, and has grown exponentially since, with the potential to provide HD programming to approximately 67 million people throughout the country.

Supplied and supported by Bangkok-based Cinegy partner C.S. Innovation Technology, the addition of multiple Cinegy Air PRO Bundles vastly simplifies the ability of Freeview HD to deliver an increasing number of HD channels effortlessly and inexpensively.

In addition to multichannel payout capabilities, the Cinegy Air PRO Bundle provide Dolby Digital encoding, EAS, watermarking and Cinegy Type channel branding in a single, software solution. Cinegy Air PRO Bundle also supports high frame rate Ultra HD formats (50/60p), includes integrated HEVC stream encoding, and the ability to offload HEVC and H.264 stream encoding to an Nvidia GPU.

THAILAND

Key developments

Thaicom PLC. and V-Nova Ltd show UHD distribution of premium sports over satellite at a breakthrough low data rate to enable operators to offer cost effective premium live sports services in Ultra HD. The solution will be part of a workshop on 4K/8K TV broadcasting and production equipment.

PERSEUS is a ground-breaking video compression technology that enables data and video to be transported, stored and secured faster and more cost effectively. The demonstration showcases V-Nova PERSEUS video decoded on a COTS computer to display the quality of UHDp50 footage of football content delivered within the tight constraints of satellite bandwidth.

V-Nova PERSEUS is a video processing technology that addresses video delivery challenges. PERSEUS software closes the capacity gap for quality delivery to connected devices over existing networks. It redraws the traditional quality-bitrate curve, enabling operators and service providers to provide high quality video within their bandwidth constraints.

Thaicom Public Company Limited and Intersat Limited have launched their Managed Satellite Network Service for Intersat and Thaicom enterprise and government customers over the iDirect satellite hub platform. The companies recently signed a multi-year deal for capacity on the THAICOM 6/AFRICOM 1 satellite.

Intersat will manage the end-to-end service from its Network Operations Center (NOC) in Nairobi, Kenya. The platform provides a fully managed, customized turnkey service, utilising state-of-the-art evolution hub technology by iDirect which, when combined with THAICOM 6/AFRICOM 1's powerful beams over Africa, leverages high degrees of efficiency to deliver cost-effective and competitive managed services to its customers.

The satellite service is a fully-managed, customised, turnkey service for reliable and secure communications with a rugged network infrastructure and a quick turnaround time. This is also a step towards an integrated workflow for UHD content transiting over the Thaicom satellite infrastructure in order to offer the best quality content in real-time to consumers, regardless of their location.

New channels

HBO Asia has entered into an exclusive partnership with Advance Info Service (AIS) in Thailand to offer its bouquet of six 24-hour, commercial-free premium movie channels – HBO, HBO SIGNATURE, HBO HITS, HBO FAMILY, RED BY HBO and CINEMAX, via the internet and on mobile devices. It has also launched its on-demand service, HBO GO, in Thailand where HBO subscribers can benefit from dual language audio options in English and Thai for selected titles.

Game of Thrones star, Liam Cunningham who plays Ser Davos Seaworth, the Onion Knight, in the hit HBO original series, was in Bangkok for the 'AIS World Class Entertainment' event to mark the launch of HBO's bouquet of channels on AIS in Thailand.

HBO's bouquet of channels has been available to its fixed broadband and mobile subscribers since March, via IPTV on AIS Playbox, as well as on the on-demand service, HBO GO, via the mobile app, AIS Play. The subscribers in Thailand will finally be able to stream HBO content and access it anytime, anywhere via their mobile devices across multiple screens.

With her joy, charm, kindness, wiliness, and optimism, she faced a chauvinistic world filled with jealousy and envy, bringing everyone to her knees. Patricia was in between two loves, the love of her life whom she met too late and the one that would become her life partner. Her journey with love led her to endure much disappointment which she expressed while singing from her heart on every stage she performed on during her journey to becoming a super star.

Night School (Drama, 100 x 1h)

Night School, Dreams Never Sleep is a series full of drama and emotion inspired by the stories of the millions of students in the world who resort to night education as their only way of getting ahead. They will be represented by eight characters with very different life stories that will encounter a number of obstacles, both personal and professional, that will test their ability to succeed in the midst of family commitments, love work, and economic obligations, which they will have to overcome if they want to become future business managers.

The Challenge (Original Entertainment Format)

The Challenge is a reality show in the participants live together and compete in 4 different categories, for a big prize. The contestants are grouped into three teams according to the theme chosen in each season. Social classes, generation, the country and the degree of popularity are the elements used to provide identity to these groups. Additionally, one of the highlights of The Challenge and what encloses the success of this format is the conditions of life in the competition are extreme and unfair. While a group spends its day in a beach house with servants, exquisite delicacies (High Beach), the other group suffers the complete lack of accommodation and food (Low Beach). In this reality, as in real life, the teams would be able to exceed or fall on their comfort levels, depending on the performance in the territorial Challenges.

The Dynasty (Telenovela 72 x 1h)

The Dynasty tells the story of three generations of men that will fight for their passion for music and the women they love. They will face many challenges on the way, but they will show how no matter the obstacles, the people in between them and what life has destined for them, their perseverance and good spirits will take them to the top of their careers and the success of conquering over the heart of the women they love.

Zap Novelas (Telenovela, 30 x 1h)

Ignacio tells a different literature classic story to Anabelle each week, trying to get her to fall in love with him. Each week the viewer will see a well-known classic of the literature realised in 2017 with a modern vision.

Escandalos (Telenovela, 116 x 1h)

Each episode we recreate a case relating to a scandal which involves people in the public. The real names of the characters are changed so that the audience do not recognise and keep guessing each case.

One Way Out, Between Heaven and Hell (Series, 80 x 1h)

This is a story of a crossing of lives. Parallel stories that take place in the Bronx neighborhood, a dangerous sector of town with a mixture of failure, disappointment and despair of thousands of drug addicts, drug dealers, merchants of dreams, and interspersed with love, faith and strong fraternity links.

P.O.W – Bandi Yuddh Ke (POW India)

Inspired by the hit Israeli drama Hatufim (Prisoners of War), this critically acclaimed Indian telenovela tells the gripping and emotionally charged soldiers who, after being held prisoner for 17 years, return home to their families.

In 1999, on a mission with their unit in the Kargil conflict in Kashmir, three Indian soldiers are captured and taken prisoner in Pakistan. Fast forward to 2016 and our story begins when, unexpectedly, after years of negotiations for their freedom, two soldiers return to India alive, while the third comes home in a coffin.

Adapted by renowned Bollywood filmmaker Nikkhil Advani from the hit format which also became the Emmy Award-winning Homeland, P.O.W – Bandi Yuddh Ke is a powerful and intriguing drama exploring whether the soldiers' longed-for freedom could be just the start of a brand new battle...
